Bundlefi was built by bankers for bankers helping them grow new deposit's, checking and savings accounts, and more. Our primary goal is to deliver more customers to you while improving your acquisition ROI. We've created a proprietary process that's proven to lower acquisition costs while stretching marketing dollars further. We've been in your shoes and know how difficult attracting and retaining new customers can be. That's why our leading edge technology helps to simplify community outreach and promotion. By focusing solely on community financial institutions, not mega banks, we're able to target an abundant source of qualified in-market consumers more effectively than any individual bank could ever do on their own.

Did we mention that that Bundlefi has expertise in consumer engagement, leveraging the power of digital marketing, SEO, and social media? As a result, we're able to target the right audience with a regular flow of content and social media messaging designed to educate consumers as to why they should bank locally. This helps local banks get in front of potential customers when they're ready to open an account for the first time or find a new banking partner.
